Any criminal justice system is an apparatus that society uses to enforce the standards of conduct necessary to protect individuals and the community. It operates by apprehending, prosecuting, convicting and sentencing of those members of the community who violate the basic rules of group existence. The action taken against law breakers is designed to serve three purposes beyond the immediately punitive one. It removes dangerous people from the community; it deters others from criminal behaviour, and it gives society an opportunity to attempt to transform lawbreakers into law-abiding citizens.

42. We understand from the passage that the basic aim of criminal justice is ---- .

- A) the protection of society and its individuals
- B) to define socially acceptable behaviour
- C) to educate lawbreakers
- D) the violation of the law
- E) to renew, as necessary, the traditions and customs of society

43. According to the paragraph, prosecution is ---- .

- A) a process which follows conviction
- B) concerned with the transformation of criminals into law-abiding citizens
- C) one of the stages in the operation of criminal justice
- D) not to be considered a vital part of the criminal justice system
- E) actually the removal of lawbreakers from the community

44. It is pointed out in the passage that one of the effects of the criminal justice system is to ---- .

- A) give guidelines for group existence
- B) discourage crime
- C) prevent the enforcement of capital punishment
- D) take immediate action against the community
- E) investigate the reasons behind criminal behaviour

45. - 47. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Chronic psychological stress depends much more on the person than on what happens to him. Someone promoted above his abilities will probably be under constant stress but some personalities may not be aware of the pressure, or of not being up to the job. On the other hand, someone in a position well within his abilities may still find everything a strain. Perhaps it is because he does not realise he can do it easily or because he wants to win promotion, or simply because that is his way of going about things.

45. The main argument of the passage is that ---- .

- A) chronic stress may lead to serious disorders
- B) stress results from difficult environmental conditions
- C) some people work better under stress
- D) people of high ability cope better with stress
- E) stress is more related to personality than to external conditions

46. According to the passage, some people ---- .

- A) misunderstand the term "stress"
- B) are afraid of being promoted
- C) work well when they're promoted above their ability
- D) do not notice how much pressure they're under in their work
- E) take on any work they happen to find

47. A person often experiences tension in his work ---- .

- A) because he deserves promotion
- B) until he has been properly trained
- C) if he is particularly easy going
- D) if there isn't adequate competition
- E) when he is promoted above his capability

48. - 50. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

In a competitive economy, the consumer usually has the choice of several different brands of the same product. Yet, underneath their labels, these products are often nearly identical. One manufacturer's toothpaste tends to differ very little from another manufacturer's. Two different brands of shampoo may vary only in scent and colour. And the tobacco in two different brands of cigarettes frequently come from the same fields. This close similarity means that a shopper often has little reason to choose one brand over another. Thus, manufacturers are confronted with a problem: How to keep sales high enough to stay in business. Manufacturers solve this problem by advertising.

48. According to this passage, the average consumer ---- .

- A) always buys the same brands
- B) realises that brand names are unimportant
- C) thinks he is faced with a wide choice but he is mistaken
- D) is well protected by law against deception
- E) can not be fooled by advertising

49. The author suggests that ---- .

- A) you should read the label on every product carefully
- B) one should realise that with many products, one brand is almost the same as another
- C) you should always make your purchases at the same shop
- D) one should find out where certain products, like tobacco have been produced
- E) the colour of a special brand of shampoo is a sign of its quality

50. It is understood from the passage that a manufacturer's chief concern is to ---- .

- A) adopt a scientific approach
- B) make one product look the same as another
- C) produce different brands of the same product
- D) know what the potential buyer wants
- E) convince customers that his product is special

51. - 53. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

A great deal of archaeological evidence has revealed the importance of water supply systems in the ancient world. Probably the most impressive systems were built by the Romans, whose aqueducts still stand in modern Italy, Spain, France and Turkey. Rome itself had a water supply estimated at 50 gallons a day for each resident of the city. The water was delivered to fountains where people collected it in pots and then carried it to their homes, only a few buildings and residences had connections to the main pipelines.

51. According to the passage, there is considerable archaeological evidence ---- .

- A) concerning ancient water supply systems
- B) showing that water supply systems were almost unknown in ancient times
- C) to explain why some countries had better water delivery systems than others
- D) to show that ancient people, too, suffered from water shortages
- E) to suggest that the ancient water supply systems of Italy and Turkey soon fell into disuse

52. According to the passage, some of the waterways built by the Romans ---- .

- A) were more impressive than their other buildings
- B) were inferior to those of earlier civilisations
- C) were insufficient to meet the demands of the public they served
- D) are still in existence after several centuries
- E) are still in use in modern Europe

53. Most people in Rome ---- .

- A) had running water in their houses
- B) had residences with connections to several fountains
- C) helped to build the aqueducts
- D) did not have enough water for their needs
- E) got their water from public fountains

54. - 56. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

The literature of any society reveals the value, the conflicts and the experiences, both past and present, of its members. Through the literature of a people, it is possible to gain some insight into their attitudes, beliefs and problems. Much of human experience is similar because basically all men have similar needs and the reader may find his own concern voiced by a character in a novel written centuries before.

54. It is pointed out in the passage that through literature we can ---- .

- A) gain considerable information about a given society
- B) forget our own problems for a while
- C) gain insight into the beliefs and problems of authors
- D) learn how to change the values and attitudes of our friends
- E) realise how different we are from the people of the past

55. The passage is mainly concerned with ---- .

- A) the literature of the past
- B) the contrast between a man's past experience and his present beliefs
- C) the need to build on one's experience of literature
- D) the relationship between literature and life
- E) the differences between literature and real life

56. It is implied in the passage that human experience ---- .

- A) differs because everyone has different needs
- B) varies from society to society
- C) is not reflected in literature
- D) is actually quite unlike anything one finds in a novel
- E) often varies little over the centuries

57. - 59. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

The emergence of new processes for producing food and services that provide better quality at a lower price than mass production has transformed the nature of mankind. This is a fundamental change in economic life. Perhaps, it performs a crucial role in the new production system. There is now democracy in the work place, a reduction of business hierarchies, the creation of production teams, the participation of more workers in decision making and employee ownership are some of the indicators of this new economic democracy. The heart of this process is not technology: It is a new set of social relations in the work place which means that most of the work now is enjoyed.

57. It can be understood from the passage that one of the greatest changes in economic life ---- .

- A) is the capacity with which people can afford to buy various things
- B) has turned out to be the appearance of the new methods for producing quality food and services
- C) has proven to be a great progress in providing adequate food and services
- D) can be taken into consideration in terms of democracy
- E) will be the realisation of the quality food and services which are also important in order to transform the nature of mankind

58. The passage emphasises that everything achieved so far for producing food and services ---- .

- A) has been the result of considerable technological advances
- B) is a sure sign of a new understanding in economic life in terms of democratic criteria
- C) is considered to be very important in terms of universal democracy
- D) was thought to be a great success for the whole world
- E) will be a great asset for the future generations

59. According to the author, two of the major assets of the new production system ---- .

- A) are an improvement in the quality of the goods and services and production techniques
- B) are competition and increased marketing potential
- C) have been slightly overrated
- D) are also characteristic of mass production
- E) play a remarkable role in the services industry but not in the manufacturing one

The urge to dance is the most powerful of human instincts. Nearly all dances from antiquity to the 19th century had one important, common characteristic. They alternated between collective movements and solo twins in which every dancer or couple in succession would become an object of attention and then merge back into the crowd. Thus, clearly expressed, this is both the commoner and the individualistic impulse of humanity holding the two in delicate balance to the benefit of a healthy society.

60. The passage emphasises that dancing ---- .

- A) is generally regarded as a professional occupation
- B) has always been a most powerful urge in a person
- C) only goes back to the nineteenth century
- D) has always been a group activity
- E) has changed dramatically over the centuries

61. According to the passage, through most of the history of dancing ---- .

- A) it has been individual talent which has inspired new modes
- B) there has been surprisingly little in the way of innovation
- C) collective and solo movements have characteristically alternated with each other
- D) it is the female solo dancer who has attracted all the attention
- E) this art has attracted very little attention

62. The passage deals with ---- .

- A) man's desire to dance, and the character and the effect of the dancing
- B) the differences between dancing now and in the past
- C) the changing art of the dancing since antiquity
- D) the main components of a healthy society
- E) the advantages of collective dancing over solo dancing

The term "Third World" is used to denote the poor nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America, as opposed to the "First World" of capitalist developed nations and the "Second World" of communist, developed nations. The terminology is far from satisfactory, as there is a great social and political variation within the "Third World". Indeed, there are some countries where extreme poverty prevails, and these could be regarded as a "Fourth World".

63. The terms "First", "Second", and "Third World" point to ---- .
- A) the different social institutions of East and West
B) the political systems in the western world
C) political and economic groupings among countries
D) distinctions covering one quarter of the world
E) differences in the educational standards throughout the world
64. According to the passage, ---- .
- A) the "Second World" includes all the poor nations of the world
B) the distinction between "First World" and "Second World" is inadequate
C) there is a strange resemblance between the countries of the "First World" and "Third World"
D) only the "First World" countries are developed
E) extreme poverty should be regarded as a sign of underdevelopment in all these "Fourth World" countries
65. The author argues that the "Third World" ---- .
- A) refers only to the Asian "Third World" countries
B) is synonymous with extreme poverty
C) satisfactorily describes the poor nations of the world
D) is not adequately descriptive
E) ought to be more widely used
